

Hearthland Products Environmental Policy

As a forward thinking member of the community whose business seeks to provide consumer products that facilitate the preservation of natural resources, we have a fundamental obligation to minimize our environmental impact.

The key, we believe, is employing our most powerful resources - people and their ideas. By embracing innovation and collaboration, by living our own commitments to use resources wisely, reduce waste, and provide long-lasting, energy-efficient products, we provide products that enhance lifestyles while positively impacting the future.

The environmental policies of Hearthland Products meet or exceed applicable environmental laws and regulations and help to protect our environment. This commitment is fulfilled by incorporating environmentally conscience practices into our manufacturing operations, engineering, and production of all our products.

It is our priority to continually improve waste management and recycling and to promote responsible environmental practices.
